The numbers in parentheses for Aristotle's Physics readings are marginal line numbers derived from Immanuel Bekker's Berlin Edition; they are called “Bekker numbers” and appear in many editions.

The Jung lectures can be found in a volume titled Jung contra Freud, excerpted from Volume 4, Part 2 of the Princeton edition of the Collected Works of C.G. Jung.

MATHEMATICS & NATURAL SCIENCE TUTORIAL READING LIST (SUMMER)

St. John's College | Annapolis, Maryland

Note: The suggested texts are the Green Lion edition of Euclid's Elements, and "Selections from Nikolai Lobachevski's Theory of Parallels" (the GI math manual), both available in the college bookstore. Please check with your tutor about class assignments rather than relying on this schedule, as different classes may take slightly different paths through this material.
